

Salt, Lime And Three Words

Written and Composed By: Anthony Holloway

Verse

Same corner booth on a Friday night
Humming neon sign with a cactus light
Basket of chips and the salsa is free
Two margaritas between you and me

Pre-Chorus

With your Auburn hair and that smile
Made my world feel a little more worthwhile

Chorus

Thought it'd take more time, thought it'd take pride
Thought I'd need another month or so to let it slide
Thought it'd take a slow burn, some runaway heat
Or a crazy night wrapped up in the sheets
Then one little look and the whole night blurred
Into salt, lime, and three words

Verse

You set your glass down, eyes on mine
Like you were waiting on the punchline
Then that slow smile started breaking through
Like some part of you already knew

Pre-Chorus

Wasn't your first, wasn't brand new
You smiled again and said it too

Chorus

Thought I'd blame the drink, thought I'd play it cool
Thought I'd laugh it off like some damn fool
Thought it'd be tequila bringing the heat
Or that second round knocking me off my feet
Turns out your smile made the whole room blur
Into salt, lime, and three words

Bridge

Morning came with coffee and light
You asked if I remembered last night
My turn to smile and pull you close
And whisper the words that mattered most

Chorus

Thought it'd take more than just one night out
Thought I knew exactly how it'd all come about Thought it'd take a few more months to feel that sure
Not one little look that I couldn't ignore
Turns out your smile made my whole world blur
Into salt, lime, and three words

Outro

Yeah, I remember exactly what occurred
Salt, lime, and three little words
